About the Rosenstiel School

From humble beginnings in the 1940’s, the Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Science has grown into one of the leading academic oceanographic and atmospheric research institutions in the world. The School’s basic and applied research interests encompass virtually all marine-related sciences.

The Rosenstiel School’s main campus is located on Virginia Key, Florida. It forms part of a specially designated 65-acre marine research and education park that includes two NOAA laboratories, and a dedicated marine and science technology high school. The Rosenstiel School also operates a 78-acre advanced satellite reception and analysis center in southern Miami-Dade County.

The Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Science (RSMAS) offers a variety of unique facilities for small and large events and meetings. For rental prices, rules, and regulations please see the Facilities Rental information below.
